

Executive Roundtable Discussion
Bridging the Cultural Divides in the Global Supply Chain

The Supply Chain profession has never before enjoyed as much visibility and importance as it does today. However, to successfully execute and meet customers' expectations, the modern Supply Chain professional must communicate and collaborate with partners all across the globe, which is made even more challenging by the variety of cultural differences and norms. Join us on May 24th as we welcome a panel of Supply Chain leaders that will share their perspective and best practices on how Supply Chain organizations bridge these gaps and make it happen in today's business climate.

May 24th, 2019

10am to 1:30pm

$25 registration

Lunch provided

Open to Industry Executive Leaders

Register via this link

Or send a note to evp@apicsatlanta.org

This event presented in partnership with:

Featured Panelists

Carla Johnson, MBA, PMP

Supply Chain Manager, International Trachoma Initiative
The Task Force for Global Health

Roberto Salomon

CEO
The Salomon Group

Scott Ellyson

Founding Partner & CEO
East West Manufacturing

Adilka White

Director of Solutions & Implementations
UPS Supply Chain Solutions

Hosted By:

Georgia Tech Supply Chain & Logistics Institute

765 Ferst Drive NW, Suite 228
Atlanta, GA 30332