

Technology and the American Civil War

Photograph by George Barnard, Courtesy of the Library of Congress, Prints and Photographs Civil War Collection*

8:30AM - 4:00PM

SATURDAY

04/12/14

GEORGIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY STUDENT CENTER THEATRE

9:15AM

Sy Goodman
(Georgia Tech)
Command, Control, and Communications during the American Civil War: Information Flows and Field Armies

Kenneth Johnston
(National Civil War Naval Museum, Port Columbus)
Inventing a New Navy

David Vaughan
(Civil War Round Table of Atlanta)
Photography During the Civil War: Innocents Exposed

11:30AM

Shauna Devine
(Western University, Ontario)
Photographing Medicine: Clinical Photography, Photomicrography, and the Development of New Investigative Techniques during the American Civil War

Mary-Elizabeth Ellard
(Georgia Battlefields Association)
A Sorrowful War: Veterinary Medicine during the War of the Rebellion

1:15PM

Artifact Display in the Piedmont Room at the Georgia Tech Student Center

2:00PM

Panel Discussion: Artifacts of the Industrial Revolution, Curating Civil War Technology, featuring Gordon Jones (Atlanta History Center), Kenneth Johnston (National Civil War Naval Museum), and David Vaughn (CWRTA)

3:00PM

Charlie Crawford
(Georgia Battlefields Association)
Walking Tour: The Georgia Tech Campus in 1864

Sponsored by the following units of the Georgia Institute of Technology:

Center for International Strategy, Technology, and Policy
The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs
School of History, Technology, and Society
Ivan Allen College of Liberal Arts

And these external sponsors:

Civil War Round Table of Atlanta
Georgia Battlefields Association

The Symposium is supported by the Colonel Leslie Callahan Memorial Endowment.

For more information and to register, visit <http://www.hts.gatech.edu/civilwar>